Ramuski was placed under arrest.

ALLIANCE CONVENTION CLOSSES.
Over $1,600 Was Subscribed for the Foreign Missions.

The convention of the Christian Alliance closed last night. The meetings of the last day were largely attended.
The large tent proving too small to accommodate the delegates.

The sermon of the morning was preached by Rev. James Leishman after the quartette had sung "Plant My Feet on Higher Ground."

"Higher Ground" was the keynote of the sermon which was a spiritual exposition of the Book of Joshua, illustrating Christian life and experience.

Joshua, he said, received his call to faith upon the death of Moses. He walked in the way of faith as the ark prepared the way on dry ground across the Jordan over dry ground.

He conquered the fight of faith when Jericho's walls crashed at the resounding of the trumpet and the shouting of the people. The failure of faith is seen at Ai and the secret of the defeat is found in the sin of Achan, which must be thoroughly judged. The test of faith came later when the men of Gideon came to make a league with Israel.

The mighty victories of faith are illustrated by the conquest of the thirty-one kings, who might represent giant evils in the life of the child of God.

At last we see the possessors of faith, culminating with the occupation of Timnath-searah, the city of the sun.
This is the higher ground of faith, looking at trials and conflicts from above, conquering in the power of the Holy Spirit, who gives us God's vision and God's faith.

After the morning meeting there was a baptismal service. At one o'clock Miss Shepard conducted a children's meeting.

In the afternoon, there were short talks by Messrs. Lord, Thomas, Ballard and Jaderquist and by Miss Shepard.

The meeting rose to a climax on the theme of foreign missions and the annual offering for this work was received.

There was a special meeting for young people at 6:30 o'clock, addressed by Miss Shepard. Later Mr. Freeman preached from the text: "He made it Again." (Jeremiah 8, 4-6.) By many illustrations from Scripture and history, he showed how lives that have been broken, completely shattered by sin, can be made over by the grace of God.

Miss Shepard sang a consecration hymn and then briefly gave a sketch of her own experience, how she was called out of a life of ease, frivolity and formal profession to a life of consecration and service. The story of her conversion, healing and call to service was given in simplicity, tenderness and power.

A communion service closed the day of many meetings and much blessing.

One of the features of this convention was what was termed a "Pentecostal Hotel." All visitors given meals free of charge at the house of Mr. Stephens adjoining the tent. Over 250 meals were served. Free will offerings were received to meet the expenses and it was found last night that after expenses were paid there was a balance over $18 which was turned into the missionary treasury.

The offering for missions amounts to $1,631, a good proportion of it cash, the balance in good pledges to be paid within a year.

Carrying the Receipts of Her Store

Mrs. Jane V. Huntington, proprietress of Huntington's bakery was attacked and robbed by a negro foot-pad near her home on Monroe avenue, as she was returning from the store late Saturday night.

Owing to a rush of business it was nearly 11:30 o'clock before she was able to close the store. She started for home unattended, carrying in a small satchel the cash that had not been deposited, amounting to over one hundred dollars.

After crossing court house square she went up Linden street and had just turned up Monroe avenue toward her home which is in the middle of the block between Linden and Mulberry streets when a man sprang from behind a tree and grasped the hand in which the satchel was carried.

She screamed for help and struggled to free herself but her assailant quickly wrested the satchel from her grasp and darted away.

A young man hastening down Linden street on his way to the fire for which the alarm had just sounded, heard the screams and quickening his pace into a run arrived just as the thief was turning off Monroe on to Linden. He gave chase but lost sight of the fugitive in McKenna court.

Mrs. Huntington describes the thief as a medium size colored man with faded black loose-fitting clothes and a derby hat.

The police are of the opinion that the thief is someone who knew of Mrs.
Huntington's custom of carrying the store receipts home with her late at night.

FILLED WITH BIRDSHOT.
Three Young Men Accidentally Shot
Yesterday.

Peter Gilhooley, Michael Murray and Michael Naughton, while chestnutting yesterday above Storr's mines, were shot by some unknown party. They were sitting at the foot of a tree, shelling the nuts, when they were filled with birdshot.

Murray was shot in the face, body and legs, and it is feared he will be disfigured for life. Gilhooley was shot above the heart, and Naughton in the leg.

It is supposed that the man who did the shooting was shooting at a chip-munk. When he heard the yells of the three, and saw the effect of his shot, he ran away. The attending physician says that these injuries, while painful, are not necessarily dangerous.

John B. Miller, of this city, was seriboulevard last evening about 6 o'clock.

He was driving back to Scranton in a single carriage with a companion, when the horse took fright at something in the road and started forward very suddenly. The sudden lurch threw both men out and onto a heap of rocks alongside the road. Miller sustained a dislocated hip and severe bruises, while his companion escaped with only a strained leg.

The horse continued onward and was not stopped until it had gone several miles. A farmer carried Miller in his wagon to the Lackawanna hospital.

A fire, which broke out in the store of Fox, the bird man, located in the Jewell building on Spruce street, near Penn avenue, Saturday night, was attended by particularly distressing features, owing to the incineration of a number of dogs, monkeys, rabbits and birds, comprising the stock of Mr. Fox.
Not only this, but the flames at one time threatened to spread to the upper floors, where they would have done serious damage.

The blaze was discovered at about 11:45 by a bell boy from the Jermyn, who was returning home from work.
He noticed smoke coming up in volumes from the basement. An alarm was turned in from Box 22, at the corner of Wyoming avenue and Spruce street. All the central city companies and the Columbias, from West Scranton, and Centurys, from South Scranton, responded.

When the firemen arrived the basement was a seething mass of flames and they were just beginning to break through the floor of the bird store, in which occupies the other side of the fire. The flames, however, were standing near the front entrance, considering the advisability of making an attempt at rescuing some of the animals inside, when the entire front of the building flew out.

The glass fell in showers on the men, but fortunately injured only one. The man was Harry May, of the Crystals, who received two bad gashes on the head.
He was taken in the ambulance to the Lackawanna hospital.

A BABEL OF NOISE.
By this time the smoke and flames had reached the store and an indescribable babel of various animal sounds arose. There was the whining and barking of dogs, the peculiar chatter or shrill cries of the monkeys and the screaming of the birds.

There were two streams of water directed on the basement, under the bird store, one more in the basement underneath the People's Credit store, which occupies the other side of the fire. The water did not do much good, for a time even these did not subside the flames and the outlook began to be serious. Through all this the miscellaneous chorus produced by the unfortunate birds and animals inside was kept up, gradually decreasing, however, as they succumbed one by one to the heat.

The flames were gotten under control about 12:40, but not until the stock and fixtures in the Fox store had been almost completely destroyed. As soon as the flames subsided the entire arsenal of the fire ladders made a dash for the store and brought out a number of the cages in which the animals were confined. The birds were found to have all been suffocated, but three of the dogs were discovered to be very much alive.

The famous pair of monkeys which have caused so much amusement in the neighborhood, were taken out thoroughly soaked and but barely alive.
They soon revived, however, as did also a few rabbits which were also rescued. It is very remarkable that any of them should have been alive, when the tremendous volume of smoke and flames which played through the store room is taken into consideration.

HAD A NARROW ESCAPE.
Photographer Frank Jewell, his wife and servant girl who reside on the third floor had a narrow escape from suffocation. They found the stairs blocked with smoke and got through a side window onto the next roof and thence through the skylight to the street.

Mr. Fox was in Philadelphia at the time of the fire and had not returned up to last night so that an exact estimate of his damages could not be learned.
There were seven or eight dogs and a large number of birds and rabbits burned alive, in addition to the fixtures.
The stock of the People's Credit House, which does a clothing business, was only slightly damaged.

The rooms on the second floor occupied by Drs. Exanar and Shimberg and Jeweler Cohen were just saved in the nick of time as the flames had begun to creep up through the floors.

The damage done the building is estimated to be about $1,500. There are policies aggregating $8,000 upon the building.

Chief Walker made an examination yesterday afternoon of the basement in which the flames started but could discover no possible cause. There was no fire of any kind in the place, nor anything that would be likely to ignite by spontaneous combustion. He says

Without a Coat of two or paint surfaces exposed to the action of the air or weather will decay.
Some

PAINTS
are worthless, neither preserving or protecting. They are made of poor oils, and poor whits lead.

We are not offering that kind. The paints we have are worthy of the fullest confidence.

Whether made here and under our direct supervision, or purchased from well known houses, they will be found up to the highest standard. A small quantity will cover a large surface.
